

The mechanism of using Zimeishu three days before menstruation

Due to the periodic changes of the sex hormones secreted by the ovaries on the inner membrane of the organs, they fall off once a month, and the mucous membranes and blood are discharged out of the body through the vagina. This periodic phenomenon is called menstruation.

During menstruation, due to pelvic congestion and the effect of prostaglandins, some women will have lower abdomen, lumbosacral drooping discomfort, or pain in the uterus, gastrointestinal dysfunction, headache, mild neurological instability and other symptoms. Due to the bleeding of periodic menstruation, women's own immunity is weak and the defense function is poor, and menstrual blood is a good culture medium for bacteria and pathogens, so the probability of bacterial pathogen infection during menstruation is high. Women starting to use Zimeishu gynecological pads three days before menstruation will block the invasion of external bacterial pathogens in advance and effectively kill bacterial pathogens in the reproductive system.

The mechanism of using Zimeishu four days after menstruation

Under normal circumstances, the environment in the reproductive system of women is weakly acidic under the action of vaginal epithelial cells and lactobacillus, while the menstrual blood of women is weakly alkaline. The changes in the environment of the reproductive system after menstruation are very suitable for the reproduction of trichomonas in an alkaline environment, thus causing trichomonas vaginitis; therefore, after menstruation, women will give residues. The trichomonas creates suitable soil, which leads to repeated attacks of trichomonas vaginitis, which complicates the treatment.

The timely use of the Zimeishu gynecological pad four days after menstruation can effectively restore the ecological balance of the female reproductive system and reduce or eliminate the occurrence or recurrence of gynecological diseases.

IAI 陕西省万安药业有限公司
SHAANXI WANAN PHARMACEUTICAL CO., LTD

The new generation of high-tech gynecological product "Zimeishu" is a new generation that our company's scientific researchers use the theory of meridians of traditional Chinese medicine and the theory of external treatment of internal diseases and external treatment of external diseases, absorb the latest research results of modern physiological anatomy, pharmacology, immunology, microcirculation, reproductive physiology and endocrinology, and successfully developed by modern traditional Chinese medicine preparation technology. The new gynecological drug with unique special effects has obvious effects of antipruritic, analgesic, antifungal, antigenic, antiviral, and enhancing the body's disease resistance. And it is non-toxic, non-irritating and allergic, and has a remarkable therapeutic effect on common gynecological diseases. The micro-wetting agent is consistent with the ecological environment of women's vulva. It is the "second mask" for women. It is convenient to use, comfortable and fashionable. It is convenient for the absorption of vaginal and uterine mucosa, and achieves the purpose of young, firm, safe and efficient prevention and treatment of gynecological diseases.

The mechanism of action of Zimeishu

This product has a unique medicinal effect on common diseases of the external and internal reproductive systems. The female vulva includes the labia majora, the clitoris, the perineum, the outer opening of the urethra, the vestibular gland, and the paraurethral gland, which contains an extremely rich branch venous vascular network, sensitive plexus, lymphatic vessels accompanying blood vessels, and dense microcirculation network, especially the thin walls of the pelvic veins and no anterior valve. These biological anatomy characteristics make The absorption of drugs by the female vulva is higher than that of any part of the skin, which is more conducive to the absorption of the "Zimeishu" drug, and can make the drug stay in the venous network and microcirculatory network for a long time to give full play to the effect of the drug, play a therapeutic role, and achieve the purpose of internal and external treatment. Vagina, uterus, fallopian tubes, ovaries, etc. These organs are all internal genitals. They have the function of gonad secretion. They are double sets of blood vessels to supply nutrition and metabolism of the organs, affecting reproduction and secondary sexual signs. If these organs have pathological changes, "Zimeishu" can restore their functions to normal. Menstrual disorders, increased leucorrhea, or symptoms of low sexual function can all disappear.

Full cycle maintenance, just use Zimeishu

Four characteristics of Zimeishu products

姊妹舒® GYNECOLOGICAL PAD

Women's full-cycle prevention and gynecological "mask"

Micro-wet agent, mucosal absorption, high bioavailability

◆ The essence of the micro-moist agent is similar to that of the mask, and the mechanism action of the two is also similar, that is, replenishing moisture, trace elements and promoting the absorption of skin mucosa.

◆ On the one hand, the essence of traditional Chinese medicine directly acts on the vagina and uterine mucosa. High bioavailability can quickly improve itching, dryness, abnormal leucorrhea, odor and other symptoms. Long-term use makes the vagina firm and youthful!

◆ On the other hand, the blood-activating and stasis components in the extracted drug essence enhance blood oxygen driving, which is conducive to promoting the rapid absorption of drug complex alkaloid molecules. It has the effect of clearing heat, dryness and dampness, detoxifying and relieving itching, and invigorating blood and regulating menstruation! Private maintenance plays the role of firming, young, safe, healthy, effective and enhancing the immune function of the reproductive system. The micro-wetting agent continuously improves the vaginal environment and achieves the balance of the flora and a healthy micro-ecological environment with balanced PH value!

◆ The micro-moist agent will form a relatively closed space in the vulva, so that traditional Chinese medicine can extract the essence and improve the private micro-ecological environment from the above two aspects.
